

Problem Statement

While many attempts have been made to stop concussions in football, there has been nothing that is proven very effective so far.

Details

Concussions are a huge problem in football. There have been many attempts to stop concussions from happening, but none have been very effective. All these concussions that the players are getting are making the players get CTE, which makes them not be able to properly function later in life because they have brain damage.